

Estela Gomes is originally from Argentina. She came to the United States 23 years ago with her husband, Jose, and her two children, Nelson and Victoria. She raised her family in Montgomery County and worked in the private and governmental arena as a Certified Public Accountant. She believes that education makes the ultimate difference in a person's life and opportunities. She wants to help the Latinx community achieve equal opportunities in American society because we all have the right to be in this world and the obligation to make it a better place.
